Roots of Medicine

WELCOME TO THE ROOTS OF MEDICINE AND THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACY MEDICINAL GARDEN!

Roots of Medicine is an interdisciplinary project featuring a collaboration between the College of Pharmacy, Hardin Library for the Health Sciences, and community members. It joins the College of Pharmacy garden you see before you with historical resources from the John R. Martin Rare Book Room at the Hardin Library for the Health Sciences and databases from the National Institutes of Health. Each plant has an identification tag with the common name, species name, and a QR code. If you point your phone's camera at the QR code and click the link that appears, you will be taken to a webpage with information on the plant's historical and modern medicinal uses and a feed of the most current research. We invite you to walk the garden, take a journey through time, and explore the Roots of Medicine!

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

DESCRIPTION

The University of Iowa in Iowa City Iowa has strived to make the entire campus an arboretum, making it an inviting connection to the natural world offering opportunities for teaching, research, public education, and recreation while caring and preserving the trees using best practices. The University received the Tree Campus USA designation in 2009 and every year since.

The campus arboretum consists of over 8,000 trees comprised of 330 species (and counting). There are seven current or former state champion trees residing on campus. Plantings of interest include: A Quercetum with 60+ species of Oaks, two American Conifer Society Reference Gardens, a Literary Grove featuring trees with connections to famous authors at the world famous International Writer's Workshop, A Gingko collection with over 75 cultivars, and an orchard featuring rare and historic fruit trees.

ADDRESS

415 South Madison St., Iowa City, Iowa 52242, United States.
